FREE TRIGGER LOCKS

The Washington State Department of Fish and Wildlife will distribute 25,000 free trigger locks. The locks are part of a nationwide firearms-safety program. The program is being headed by both the U. S. Department of Justice and the National Sports Shooting Foundation.

The locks will be available at the Department's headquarters in Olympia. They will also be available at DFW regional offices around the state. Sport shooters can also find the free trigger locks at most large sport shows.

Sport Shooters who cannot find the free locks at sport shows can still get them. By sending $2.00 in return postage, the state will mail a free trigger lock. Requests should be sent to Free Gun Lock, WDFW Enforcement program, Hunter Education Division, 600 Capitol Way North, Olympia, Washington, 98501-1091.
